Styling for Firefox

Firefox does not use `::-webkit-scrollbar` but supports `scrollbar-width` and `scrollbar-color`.

A code editor window with a dark theme. The title bar shows three colored circles (red, yellow, green) and a tab labeled 'style.css'. The code is as follows:

```
/* Global Scrollbar Settings */
html {
  scrollbar-width: thin; /* Options: auto, thin, none */
  scrollbar-color: #888 #e0e0e0; /* Thumb | Track */
```

Hides scrollbars in Firefox and IE; use cautiously for accessibility.

A code editor window with a dark theme. The title bar shows three colored circles (red, yellow, green) and a tab labeled 'style.css'. The code is as follows:

.scrollable {
  scrollbar-width: none; /* Hide */
  -ms-overflow-style: none; /* IE */
}
```

Accessibility Tips

- Ensure sufficient contrast between thumb and track colors.
- Avoid completely hiding scrollbars unless necessary.
- Test across devices and browsers for consistent behavior.

Browser Compatibility

Feature	Chrome	Edge	Firefox	Safari	IE
<code>::-webkit-scrollbar</code>	✓	✓	✗	✓	✗
<code>scrollbar-width</code>	✗	✗	✓	✗	✗
<code>scrollbar-color</code>	✗	✗	✓	✗	✗

Note :

Use all the styles together for a complete and consistent scrollbar customization.

style.css

```
/* Style for All Scrollbars */
::-webkit-scrollbar {
    width: 12px;
}

::-webkit-scrollbar-track {
    background: #f0f0f0; /* Light gray */
}

::-webkit-scrollbar-thumb {
    background: #333; /* Dark gray */
    border-radius: 6px;
}

::-webkit-scrollbar-thumb:hover {
    background: #555; /* Slightly lighter */
}
```
